Many organizations recognize that your loss may negatively impact your ability to afford college, and there are scholarships that can help.

Love to Know has put together a list of financial aid and scholarship opportunities for children who have a deceased parent. View List Here

Owlcation has a great list as well from February of 2019. View List Here

You can also apply or nominate a student here for a mental health awareness scholarship from bold.org, a website for scholarships.

Make sure you contact financial aid of the colleges where you will be applying. Many colleges have endowments and funds that are specific to the school.
